Annexure-III: Best Practices

Best Practice I: Inculcating a Value System among the students through co-curricular and extra-curricular activities

1. Title of the Practice: “Inculcation of Values through co-curricular and extra-curricular activities”.

2. Goals: The institution firmly believes that co-curricular and extra-curricular activities actually complement the curricular activities and groom the students in the “Art of living and working together.” The institution through its conscious efforts guides the students through the true and practical learning experiences.

A Chinese proverb very aptly states, “Teach me, and I will forget. Show me, and I might remember. Involve me, and I will never forget.” To a very great extent, the theoretical knowledge is enhanced when co-curricular and extra-curricular activities, related to the content taught, are simultaneously organized. Intellectual development of the personality is achieved to a great extent, in the classroom itself. But, the aesthetic development like character building, spiritual and moral values, physical growth, creativity and many more are backed up by co-curricular and extra-curricular activities only. Such activities also facilitate coordination, adjustment, and speech fluency, extempore and debating skills amongst students. It teaches the students to stand up for their rights. The institution believes that Co-curricular and extra-curricular activities render a number of values like: Educational value, Psychological Values, Development of Social Values, Development of Civic Values, Physical Development Values, Recreational Values, and Cultural Values.

3. The Context: In the 21st century, the pure academic type of education that students are introduced to, is steadily paving way to a whole new type of education with a special focus to incorporate three major genres of education: reasoning, psychomotor and emotional learning.

Education is a pretty broad concept that surpasses the four walls of a classroom. The core aim of education is to foster all round development of a child. All round development essentially means intellectual, physical, moral, sensible and social development. All round development can be achieved only through education. Education plays a fundamental role in the making of a man and his development as a culturally well-developed social being. To fulfill these objectives, there is a prime need of striking a balance between syllabus, curriculum, books and also co-curricular activities beyond that.

4. The Practice:

The institution organizes various co-curricular activities like seminars, debates, elocution, essay writing, PPT competition, poetry recitation, quiz competitions etc. The institution also organizes various extra-curricular activities like games and sports, activities under the aegis of NCC and NSS such as tree plantation, birth and death Anniversaries of national heroes, rallies, ecological concerns, contemporary social issues etc.

5. Evidence of Success: Some of the major benefits that have been accrued from such practices are as follows:

- Overall Personality Development:

It helped to enhance the all-round personality of the students to strongly face the turbulent road of the future. Experiences and appreciation gained through these activities have assisted the students during internships and on getting employed in organizations.

- Strengthened Self Confidence:

The goal of co-curricular activities is to give better fitness to students and inculcate a sense of sportsmanship, competitive spirit, leadership, meticulousness, cooperation, and team spirit. The hidden motive behind all this is to develop self-confidence and to learn to trust the team.

- Developed Specialized Skills:

Co-curricular and extra-curricular activities have helped hone the talents of the young minds and have given them an opportunity to develop their specialized skills. Competitions that are organized have created a competitive environment and helped them work towards the objective of creating a better society.

- Improved Academic Performance:

Our experience from the past observations has shown that students pursuing their hobbies have achieved good results in their studies too. Their academic performance goes up as they learn to balance their co-curricular activities with their academic pursuits. They also better understand on how to manage their time efficiently and also increases their interest in the institution. Such activities like participation in debates, drama, music, sports, etc. help in achieving the bigger purpose of achieving better education.

- Sense of Responsibility:

It has been observed that the students who take part in such activities have developed a greater sense of responsibility over a period of time.

- Exposure to New Activities:

Students are introduced to a whole new horizon of activities that gives them a better insight and lets them choose what they enjoy and what they wish to learn. It broadens new horizons for them. These activities stimulate playing, painting, acting, dancing, singing and speaking skills in students.

6. Problems Encountered and Resources Required:

The infrastructural facilities like Seminar hall, AV theatre, classrooms etc. are regularly made use of in order to organize the said activities. Also, adequate financial support is given by the college.

Best Practice II: Proactive and Significant Role in Designing the Curriculum

1. Title of the Practice: Proactive and Significant Role in Designing and Developing Curriculum. Teachers have played proactive role in identifying the latest developments in respective fields, changing needs of the society, the market requirements and the employment generating potential of various programmes. The College being a leading institute, teachers have provided appreciable inputs in many ways in this process.

2. Goal: The aim of this practice is to involve and integrate more teachers in design and development of curricula of University prescribed curriculum.

3. The Context: This Best Practice is being followed by the College teachers for several years. Designing the curriculum and restructuring it, is although the responsibility of the University, but our college teachers have provided valuable inputs to the process. The faculty represents various Boards of Studies at SGBAU, Amravati. Out of which, 13 are members of BOS, 2 are Chairmen of BOS in Botany and Physics. Also, 2 of them are Deans of the faculties and 4 are the members of BOE of the university. Such substantial participation of the faculty members has been instrumental in bringing about the changes in the syllabi keeping pace with the current trends in higher education.

4. The Practice: The teachers have Informal discussions with students, alumni and parents regarding the present scenario of Higher education in the country and relate it with the topics/ chapters/ content taught in the present curricula. After this, they ask for an informal feedback, on what more value addition could have been possible in the curriculum. Accordingly, suggestions from peers, employers / industry and community are also considered. These feedbacks are passed on to the concerned Board of Studies through the workshops organized on curriculum revision. The feedback regarding the syllabi and any necessity for revision is gathered from teachers of the respective subjects. This, in turn, is communicated to the members of the Board of Studies of the universities. In case of most subjects, there is direct representation of at least one of the college teachers, on the Board of Studies / curriculum revision committee, which makes the job easy. Meetings with peers from other colleges, special workshops for syllabus revision provide necessary opportunities for obtaining feedback. The College took lead to organize syllabus revision workshops at University level in the present Curriculum revision exercise. Teachers also participate in syllabus revision workshops arranged by other institutes. Organization of university level syllabus revision workshops has been a regular feature of the College. At the same time, teachers also participate in curriculum revision workshops organized by other colleges and institutes as well. Suggesting market-responsive programmes and career-oriented courses to the university for curriculum updates is also been practiced. The need for curriculum revision is assessed from academic peers through subject association activities, interaction with visiting faculty, academic gatherings like workshops, seminars and refresher courses, and Board of Studies meetings.

5. Evidence of Success: The success measured is in terms of proactive participation of College Teachers and the quality of feedback provided in the curriculum development and its implementation.

6. Problems Encountered and Resources Required: There were very few problems encountered and so could be managed easily. Physical facilities in the form of Seminar/ Audio-Visual Halls and ICT support is provided by the College. Local hospitality is also provided and arrangements are done at departmental level.
